National War Service Bill Being Drafted

M'NUTT MAPS LEGISLATION ON MANPOWER

Says Problem Has Become Too Complex To Be Solved By 'Voluntary Action.'

READY WITHIN TWO WEEKS

WMC Chairman Says Shortages of Workers Exist In 40 Vital Centers.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Paul V. McNutt declared today the manpower problem was becoming too complex for effective voluntary action and announced that within two weeks he would present a national service bill to President Roosevelt.

"There are acute shortages of all types of male labor in 40 major centers of war production," the chairman of the war manpower commission testified to the senate military committee.

"Turnover in west coast war plants has reached fantastic heights," McNutt said. "Labor piracy is rife in Buffalo and Detroit. Squeezing the last employable person in the area into employment is a crucial problem in Connecticut."

McNutt said the president instructed him several weeks ago to draw up a national service bill, now being drafted by the war manpower commission's management-labor policy subcommittee.

"It is only fair to this group to state that the subcommittee has indicated their opposition to immediate enactment of national service legislation," McNutt said. "They believe that all indirect sanctions should be exhausted before such a law is passed.

"Nevertheless, they are preparing draft legislation for consideration whenever the president indicates that national service legislation is required."

McNutt left no doubt as to his own belief that such legislation was necessary.

"Public opinion and sound public policy both dictate that we must not stop short of compulsion when those who will not cooperate are blocking war production," he declared.

Yesterday President Roosevelt warned congress of the geographi-

Henderson Orders Ceilings on Nylon Hose Over Nation

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Ceiling prices on all types of women's nylon hosiery go into effect tomorrow to reduce "fantastic" prices now being charged "in almost every store in the country."

Price Administrator Leon Henderson, in announcing the new ceilings, said prices had reached "inflated levels" through price-gouging by retailers and "black market" operators who have laid in large stocks.

Henderson had no sympathy for dealers who might lose money by the order.

"Dealers in hosiery or other commodities who acquire disproportionately large stocks of a commodity in which scarcity is present or threatened do so at their own peril," he said.

"If the by-product of fair prices is monetary loss to would-be profiteers, it may be all to the good."

The new maximum prices range from $1.55 for a pair of first quality circular knit hosiery, to $2.50 for a pair of first quality all nylon of 57 gauge and higher.

U. S. Manpower Board Lists Mansfield as One of 10 Ohio Cities With Labor Surplus, Urges Contract Preference

Mansfield was listed today by the War Manpower commission in Washington as one of the 10 cities with a labor surplus and as one of the areas where war production contracts should be placed because of the supply of potential workers.

Supporting the commission's report, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the U. S. Employment Service, said there is a surplus of unskilled and semi-skilled labor now in the city, but added that "there won't be in six months."

Handley predicted that expansion of existing war industries in Mansfield would need from 2,500 to 3,000 more workers, both men and women, within six months.

Besides, the Marion ordnance plant which will require thousands of workers within a few weeks will draw heavily on the Mansfield supply, the employment manager said.

"It will be a case of competition between Mansfield plants and the Marion ordnance plant for Mansfield workers," he commented. "The city that can offer them the better jobs first will get them."

A News-Journal survey last July revealed that hundreds of Mansfielders have gone to nearby cities for jobs because work was difficult to find in Mansfield plants which either were converting to war production or did not have sufficient war contracts to keep them running at capacity.

Handley said today that although Mansfield workers are still taking jobs in nearby war production centers, scores of them who have already left would like to come back to Mansfield to take jobs if there was work for them here.

WESTERN WINS 'S' BANNER IN SCHOOL DRIVE

Collects 144.9 Pounds of Scrap Per Pupil; Trophy Award Delayed.

The 248 pupils in Western avenue school collected an average of 144.9 pounds of scrap each in the two weeks ending last Friday to win the first "S" banner awarded in the schools' scrap drive, Superintendent W. L. Miller announced today.

Meanwhile, awarding of The News-Journal trophy for the best school collection last week was delayed again today while the county salvage committee completed weighing the scrap at St. Peter's school.

Carl L. Stough, county salvage chairman, said 33 tons had been removed today from the St. Peter's scrap pile and he estimated that only half of the collection has been weighed. He predicted that the parochial school would be the winner on the basis of last week's collection.

After a slow start during the first week of the scrap campaign, Western avenue pupils stepped up their search for scrap last week and collected the fourth best total tonnage in the city for the two-week period. With 35,940 pounds for the two weeks, the school was topped only by Senior high, Bowman and Hedges schools among the city's public schools.

In the per pupil collection, Brinkerhoff school was second and the Hedges school was third.

Senior high pupils collected all of their scrap last week, gathering 120,930 pounds, more than twice the amount collected by any other public school in the city. The per Promises to End Crisis Over Chilean Relations With Axis.

SANTIAGO, Chile—(AP)—President Juan Antonio Rios has promised to solve "within the next 48 hours" a political crisis, growing out of Chile's continued diplomatic relations with the Axis, which resulted in the resignation of the cabinet last night.

The struggle reached its climax when Foreign Minister Ernesto Baros Jarpa, an advocate of continuing relations with the Axis, charged that U. S. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles offended Chile's national dignity recently by charging that she was permitting Axis agents to use her territory as a base for hostile acts against her American neighbors.

The central committee of the Socialist party, with three members in the retiring cabinet, instructed these ministers yesterday to support a break with Germany, Italy and Japan. Chile and Argentina alone of the American republics maintain relations with the Axis nations.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The federal trade commission announced today it had filed complaints against the manufacturers of "Bromo-Seltzer," "BC," "Stanback," "Hick's Liquid Capudine," and "C.C. Compound," all described as headache remedies, charging them with false advertising and misrepresentation.

Two Mansfield Men Lost During Naval Battles In Pacific Area

Lieut. Harrington, Paul Kopchok on Missing List.

Two Mansfield members of the U. S. Navy today were reported missing in action "in the performance of their duty to our country" during recent Pacific area fleet battle engagements with Axis enemy naval contingents.

Lieut. (senior grade) Fred C. Harrington, 36, failed to be accounted for following battle action, according to a message received by his mother, Mrs. Mabel L. Harrington, 178 Carpenter road, from Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of Navy personnel. He is a brother of Captain James R. (Bud) Harrington, manager of Harrington Air Service at Municipal airport.

"My boy is only one of a multitude and I school myself not to fear the worst," Mrs. Harrington said.

"Fred was my 'kid brother' and somehow seems just a little closer than others," calmly related Mrs. W. E. Hahne, a sister of the missing officer, with whom Mrs. Harrington makes her home. Mrs. Hahne has a son, 21, in the armed forces.

PAUL KOPCHOK LIEUT. HARRINGTON

In a similar message Mr. and Mrs. George Kopchok, 756 North Bowman street, were notified of the unknown fate of their son Paul, 21, who joined the Navy three years ago, rising to pharmacist's mate.

The message awaited Mrs. Kopchok, a Navy Mothers club member, on her return from downtown where she bade Godspeed to a

DELAY ACTION ON NEW TAXES

Congress Leaders To Hold Up Any Further Measures Until After First of Year.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Congressional leaders turned an unofficial but emphatic thumbs down today on any further major tax legislation until after the first of the year.

With the biggest of all revenue bills on President Roosevelt's desk for his signature today, after its final approval by both houses yesterday, the chairmen of the two tax-framing committees let it be known that they and their aides felt they had done enough for a while.

Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the senate finance committee told reporters that while Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau might carry out his announced intention of requesting $6,000,000,0000 more in direct revenue, he, George, thought nothing concrete would be done about it by congress until after Jan. 1.

Moreover, George made it plain

KEEP SPORTS

Detroit Schools to Use Them In 'Conditioning' Plan.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—The Detroit board of education moved ahead with a modified student physical conditioning program today after throwing out a proposal by Superintendent Warren E. Bow that would have put an end to competitive high school activities for the duration.

The program, as revised, will stress competitive sports as a supplement to compulsory physical training for both boy and girl students.

The board rejected Bow's plan, 4 to 3, at a special session yesterday after a committee reported that it considered retention of athletics an important part of any conditioning program. Similar arguments were voiced by a number of Detroit officials and a representative of the high school athletes themselves.

BACK MOVE TO RATION COFFEE

Mansfield Grocers Support Demand of Ohio Association For Buying Curb.

Mansfield grocers, many of whom have been entirely out of coffee for some time, today welcomed the demand of the Ohio Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers for immednate nation-wide coffee rationing.

The association, meeting in annual convention in Akron Monday and Tuesday, unanimously passed a resolution calling on the War Production board for immediate rationing to end the "run" store have been experiencing. Mansfield grocers who have coffee have been limiting per customer sales to a half pound.

Rationing appears to grocers to be the only solution to the perplexing problem and pending its application coffee drinkers have been urged to limit their daily consumption to one or two cups.

Mansfield grocers attending the Akron convention were: Ralph A. Schad, manager of the Independent Grocers Institute, Inc.; M. R. Guiher, 301 Lexington avenue; Richard Ropp, 191 Marion avenue; Thomas Davis, 4 West Prospect; Floyd Davis, Bowman street, and Walter Wixon and Robert C. Walter, of Tracy and Avery. Carl Laughbaum, of Shelby, also attended.

BURTON OPPOSES DRY RIDER IN TEENER DRAFT

Ohio Senator Says Army Can Control Camps, Police Nearby Areas.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Harold H. Burton, R., O., said today he would oppose a prohibition amendment to the 'teen-age draft bill on the ground that "it is an unnecessary restriction and has no place in a selective service bill."

Burton said he would vote against the amendment sponsored by Sen. Josh Lee, D., Okla., to bar liquor sales near army camps. Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, D., Texas, said meanwhile, that 130,000 Ohioans had signed petitions asking the amendment's immediate adoption.

Burton said that the army had "effective controls" over liquor within camps and added that incorporated areas near encampments are being "amply policed."

"Everybody agrees that the less drinking our soldiers do the better off they will be," Bruton said. "There is a danger, however, that we'll be opening the way to something worse if we make the restrictions too drastic."

Sen. Lee, meanwhile, opposed administration proposals for modification of his dry-zone amendment to the 'teen-age draft bill so that it would permit the sale of 3.2 per cent beer in the vicinity of army camps and naval bases.

Beer of the 3.2 per cent variety was sold for a brief period in 1933 and until the prohibition amendment was wiped off the books.

Administration leaders was said to be scrambling now for any kind of a compromise with Lee since they are certain that if the issue comes to a roll call vote the dry zone rider will go through.

CURBS BUILDING

Nelson Stops All Work Not Essential To War.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson today ordered a halt of virtually all construction work which is not "directly essential to the war effort."

He revealed that he has given instructions to revoke priority assistance to a large part of non-military construction and also has ordered a review of all military projects with a view toward curtailment.

Notifying the heads of eight governmental agencies of his action, Nelson said that if the present construction program were carried out it would "absorb between one-fifth and one-fourth of the total war effort."

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The war is lengthening the season for the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company's daily runs between the two cities until late November this year.

Bombers Batter Steadily at Jap Pacific Bases

Continual Blasting at Solomons Stalls Enemy's Use of Full Force In Move To Re-Take Islands; Australian Troops Gain In New Guinea.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Allied domination of the skies in the vast Pacific battle front appeared growing mightier today as American bombers slugged Japanese invasion bases from the Aleutians to the Solomons.

The fury of the Allied bombing of enemy troops and supply concentrations in the Solomons seemed thus far to have stalled, at least temporarily, the full force of a Japanese thrust to retake the American-held Guadalcanal airbase and win control of the southwest Pacific.

While a large force of Japanese warships and auxiliary vessels in the Solomons and reinforced enemy troops on northwestern Guadalcanal still held an expected attack in leash, United States bombers dropped explosives on the embattled island's invaders on Oct. 18 and 19, and started fires at the Japanese Rekata bay base on Santa Isabel island, 150 miles to the northwest.

At that same time, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian command reported last night, Allied bombers were believed to have inflicted extensive damage on the Japanese airdrome and shipping at Buin, Bougainville island, about 315 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

All Allied planes, meeting no attempts at interception, returned safely from the Buin night raid.

Possibility that the southwestern Pacific skies soon may become a hornet's nest of Allied planes was seen yesterday in an assertion by Secretary of the Navy Knox that the number of navy land-based planes was "steadily increasing."

In the North Pacific, the navy announced that on Oct. 18 the army's heavy four-motored Liberator bombers smashed again at the island of Kiska, the last of three Aleutian bases once held by the Japanese.

Twelve tons of bombs were dropped on enemy shore installations and on a beached ship in the harbor. The explosives set fires in the camp area.

DWINDLES: Rain Helps Slow Up Nazi Drive at Stalingrad

BULLETIN

ON THE FRENCH FRONTIER—(U.P.)—Germany has given France an extension of time to Nov. 15—with a possible further extension to Nov. 30—to fill the quota of 150,000 workers promised by Chief of Government Pierre Laval for Nazi war factories, reports from France said today.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's latest week-old offensive against Stalingrad was reported dwindling today as cold rain again drenched the cemetery streets, and Russian headquarters announced that the Red armies had held their lines unbroken for 48 hours.

It was the 58th day of siege, just five days short of equalling the historic Russian stand in the nine-week siege of Odessa last year.

German field headquarters acknowledged that the Russians were launching powerful diversion attacks against the Nazi-guard north flank, above Stalingrad, but asserted they had been repulsed in heavy fighting.

For the second successive day the Germans stressed bad weather conditions along the battle line, declaring that rains were hampering operations both in the Stalingrad zone and in the Caucasus.

"The so-called mire period has started on the eastern front," Nazi dispatches said.

Hitler's command reportedly that "the struggles are being continued" inside Stalingrad, while other Nazi reports said German shock troops had scored fresh gains in house-to-house fighting.

Dispatches from the ruined Volga metropolis said a battered power plant still supplied electricity to the city and that a newspaper continued to publish.

As the din of battle subsided, with Nazi attacks growing successively weaker, the Soviet command reported that the city's reinforced defenders had beaten off a series of attacks and "hurled back the enemy to his original positions."

German losses were estimated as high as 70 per cent of their effectives in the new drive which began last Wednesday.

The Russians declared they also had improved their positions

ACTION: Time at Hand for Offensive In War, Smuts Says

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa, told a joint meeting of the house of commons and the house of lords today that the German army is "bleeding to death" in Soviet Russia and "the stage is set for the last, the offensive phase" of the war for the United Nations.

The 72-year-old premier, last surviving member of the war cabinet of the last war still active in high office, said the "appalling blood-letting which is necessary for Hitler's ultimate defeat is being administered by the Russians and they alone can do it."

Russia, Smuts said, is "bearing more than her share of the common burden" and he urged that "whatever help in whatever form we can give to Russia to sustain her in her colossal effort should be given in fullest measure and with utmost speed."

In reference to the second front, Smuts said the defense phase of the war for the United Nations had ended.

"The final alignments both of the Allies and of our enemies have been made," he said. "Resources have been developed and mobilized on a very large scale. Ours are still on the increase, those of the enemy are on the decline. Our manpower is still growing, that of the enemy is getting depleted.

"We are approaching the point when, both on the war fronts and on the home fronts in the enemy countries, the situation is ripening for far-reaching developments."

"Once the time has come to take the offensive and to strike while the iron is hot," he said, "it would be folly to delay, to over-prepare and perhaps miss our opportunity. Nor are we likely to do so."

The premier said the war "may continue till 1944."

Mansfield to Be Ready for State Blackout, Judge Says

Mansfield will be adequately prepared for local or state-wide blackout tests following the two-day war protection school to be conducted here Oct. 31-Nov. 1 by Purdue university and the Chemical Warfare Service, according to an opinion expressed today by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, civilian defense coordinator.

Ralph H. Stone, state defense director, announced today that state-wide blackout tests will be held within three or four months. Ohio generally is well prepared for any emergency, Stone declared.

William E. Telzrow, regional protection representative, will arrive Thursday noon for conferences with Kalbfleisch. The representative of Fifth region headquarters will contact public and defense officials of the surrounding territory to urge attendance at the school.

In his appeals for the school Kalbfleisch stressed that defense workers here needed instruction in blackout regulations, plant protection and the handling of bombs which might strike the city in an air raid.

Meanwhile Mayor W. J. Locke, belatedly, has requested R. D. Iden, chairman of the blackout committee and factory representatives to confer on rules provided for in an ordinance passed last June. Kalbfleisch recently repeated his request that the mayor comply with the ordinance provisions.

SOROSIS MEMBERS SEE DISPLAY OF BOOKS

General Theme of Program Is Books; Review of New Novel By Hartzell Spence Given and Roll Call Answered By a Book Title.

THE MANSFIELD SOROSIS members had a most interesting program last evening when they met at the Women's Club as the guests of Mrs. Edward Gibson. Mrs. O. G. Place presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president. The theme of the program which followed was "Books." Mrs. H. L. Creveling reviewed the book "Get Thee Behind Me," by Hartzell Spence, most entertainingly.

Members answered the roll call by mentioning some particularly interesting book they had read recently. They had on display an unusual collection of books belonging to different club members. One which attracted the attention of all was an old German Bible dated 1422. The type for this was hand-made and the book had a wooden back.

Another book of particular interest was a French history of 1723 which was brought to this country after World war I. And fascinating especially because of its size was a tiny English dictionary, only one inch long. There were many others equally interesting and the 22 members present spent a very pleasant hour examining and discussing them. The club adjourned to meet on Nov. 3 with Mrs. Milo Hieber as hostess.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN CAN HE SIGN OFF?

Letting your partner's signoff stand in an important point-saving habit, when used at the right time. But when is the right time? If he responds to your opening bid with a suit of his own, and you then bid No Trump, he still might have a pretty good amount of strength. But if he then makes a minimum rebid of his own suit, a warning is implied. Maybe his hand is virtually worthless except for play at that one suit. Unless you are pretty strong, it is well to heed him and pass.

	♠ A K 2 ♥ Q 8 3 2 ♦ A K 7 ♣ J 5 3
♠ Q 8 7 5 4 ♥ 10 ♦ 9 8 6 2 ♣ A K 10	N W E S	♠ J 10 6 ♥ A 9 7 6 4 ♦ 4 ♣ Q 5 3
	♠ 9 3 ♥ K J ♦ J 10 4 ♣ Q 9 7 6 4 2

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 NT

At one table the bidding went just like that except that North passed the 3-Clubs, considering it a sign-off which was almost an obligatory command to quit bidding unless North was considerably stronger or held enough of a club tit to try for a club game. That contract was made after West led the singleton heart 10. The defenders got two trump tricks, one heart ruff with the club 10 and the heart A, a diamond being put on the heart Q, so that South exactly made his contract.

Where North played at 3-No Trumps, the spade J was led to the K, club 5 to the Q and K, heart 10 to the A to clear the dummy of a recently, which happened when the next heart went to the K, then the club 6 was led to the A. The spade 5 was ducked, the 10 winning, and the A knocked out. North scored his diamond A and K, plus the club J, then gave up a diamond to the Q, as he had East counted. That made East return a heart from his 9-7 up to the Q-8, giving North the last two tricks — a neat end-play — but North was down a trick in spite of it.

Bidding 2-Clubs on a hand like South's is highly dangerous unless you have a partner who is pretty likely to consider 3-Clubs on your next turn a plea to drop the conversation.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K 10 7 6 ♥ Q 5 ♦ J 10 8 4 ♣ A 6 2

	♠ 5 4 ♥ K J 10 9 8 2 ♦ K 6 ♣ K 8 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If East wins the opening trick with the diamond A, what should he return in an effort to defeat 4-Hearts?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I HAD NOT been mistaken in what note to sound to dispel Lillian's dark mood. As always, her generous spirit and tender heart responded to another's need, and she cast aside her grievance against Carolyn, as summarily as if tossing aside a useless pebble.

"Oh, the poor deluded, bewildered child!" she exclaimed. "Where is she? I will go to her at once."

"She is in Miss Whitlock's room. I will bring her here to you. And after she has seen you and Ronald, who does not yet know the truth behind her actions, may she stay here tonight? Father wants Dicky and Miss Whitlock to take her back to Weirhampton tomorrow."

"Not you?" she asked in surprise.

"No. I don't know why Father wishes me to stay in the city, but he does."

Lillian Relieved

"For which Allah be praised!" she said fervently. "I always feel so less lost when you are in the city, even though not where I can put my hand on you. Of course Carolyn may stay here as long as you wish."

"I fancy Father is anxious to get her back to Weirhampton," I said. "He has absolved her of having guilty knowledge about Marion's disappearance, but is still intent on using her as the stake-born goat to lure the tiger into the trap."

"You mean those gangsters will go up there and try to abduct her?" Lillian said with a shiver.

"No. Father doesn't think they'll dare go as far as that. But he does think they will keep on trying to get in touch with her. Anyone trying to see or talk to Carolyn will be trailed effectually."

Madge Explains

"Does Carolyn know that?" she asked, with a slight frown.

"No, she doesn't" I said. "Father wishes her kept in ignorance of that."

"She'll not learn it from me," Lillian said with emphasis. Then she looked at me oddly.

"Have you any glimmering of an idea what hold the gangster may have over her?" she queried.

"I've thought of a hundred fantastic things," I parried, "and now that Carolyn has promised to tell me sooner or later, I'm going to put the whole thing out of my mind until she does."

If she knew that I did have a theory, she concealed her insight.

"Right you are," she said. "And now bring that poor child over here as soon as you can."

Ronald Kept Waiting

"She'll be here in two minutes," I told her. Then I went to Miss Whitlock's quarters and made good my boast. Well within my time limit I put Carolyn into Lillian's wide-opened arms and left them.

"Aunt Madge!" a hoarse whisper sounded behind me. Turning, I saw Ronald, tense, watchful, his face a picture of misery.

"Didn't I see Carolyn go into Mrs. Underwood's room just now?" he asked.

"Yes, you did," I said.

"But," he said, "I thought you took her away because she had tried to hoodwink Aunt Lillian into going out with her to meet that gangster, and—"

I took him by the coat lapels and turned him back toward the room he had just left.

"Ronald," I said, "I'll be with you and explain everything in five minutes. Please go back to your room and stay there until then."

AIR ATTACKS ON JAPS IN PACIFIC AREA SPEED UP

Steady Assaults on Enemy In Solomons Stall Start of All-Out Offensive.

Meantime, MacArthur's Australian troops further reduced the Japanese threat to the Allied Port Moresby base in New Guinea by pushing the enemy back three miles in the Owen Stanley mountains.

The expected Japanese assault to recapture Guadalcanal airfield appeared still to be forming although the navy declared the enemy had not landed additional reinforcements on the island since Oct. 15.

Presence of U. S. warships in the Solomons was disclosed by the navy two days ago and for the last several days, American bombers and fighter planes have maintained steady attacks on Japanese shipping, supply dumps and troops.

Find Jap Positions At Kiska Unchanged

ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND HEADQUARTERS —(AP)—The latest group of Liberator bombers which are daily attacking Japanese attempting to reinforce their garrison at Kiska reported enemy positions unchanged on the island, the army announced today.

The group, one of several conducting the army's raid-a-day tests against the invaders, was led by Capt. Lynn R. Moore. The flight noted hits in the camp area and one especially heavy explosion which may have been a gasoline dump.

The Moore flight, like all since Oct. 3, met no aerial opposition while dropping its 12 tons of bombs.

The latest attack was concentrated on Trout lagoon and the main Kiska camp. A number of cargo ships already are beached in the lagoon.

The Japanese positions at Gertrude Cove where the reinforcement attempt are being concentrated are also unchanged, the fliers reported.

The raiders met continuing anti-aircraft fire, but most of the Japanese scurried for cover and froze to the ground when they saw the American planes.

The Japanese are even using bomb craters for shelters, sometime putting up tents in such improvised protection.

Fighter escorts of American aerial raiding parties have recently been reduced, and the fighters which do go along now find little to do. Occasionally they find ships trying to make a get-away, or radio shacks, upon which to turn their machine guns.

MacArthur Planes Fight On Two Fronts

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—(U.P.)—Allied ground troops have forced the Japanese into a new retreat in the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea while medium bombers of the southwest Pacific command smashed at enemy installations in the northern Solomons, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The air forces returned to the support of American units facing a new battle on Guadalcanal island after a one-day lapse. They made the air field at Buin, Bougainville island, their chief target in a night raid carried out just before dawn yesterday, MacArthur said in a communique, and attacked enemy shipping in that area.

All planes returned safely from the raid and it was believed that they inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

Steadily pushing the Japanese back toward New Guinea's north shore after their unsuccessful drive on Port Moresby, Allied units advanced beyond Templeton's crossing, in the towering Stanley mountains.

The Allied ground troops were advancing despite shell fire from Japanese mountain guns, which they were encountering for the first time since the battle at Ioribaiwa ridge, 32 miles north of Port Moresby.

SHOWS DECLINE

Cases Dropping In Ontario Typhoid Fever Outbreak.

Indications that the threatened typhoid fever outbreak in the Springfield township-Ontario region is subsiding came in today's announcement by the city-county board of health that only two new cases, raising the total to 20, have been reported since Monday.

Analysis of water samples of wells in that area raised the total showing pollution to eight. Five had been reported Monday. Sam Young, health department sanitarian, is testing additional water and milk sources as Dr. W. B. Wild, health commissioner, seeks the causes for the outbreak two weeks ago.

Pupils of the Ontario centralized school will receive their second "shot" of the triple typhoid immunization series tomorrow. School buses will make their regular trips at the usual hour Thursday morning and will return the students to their home following treatment. Classes have been dismissed until Nov. 2.

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—Dr. Elmer E. Burns, 80, of Kirby, O., today was under a suspended one-year sentence and an order of federal Judge Frank L. Kloeb to pay a fine of $1,000 and costs on a charge of violating federal narcotics laws.

The court warned Dr. Burns that he would be imprisoned if he wrote another narcotic prescription.

RAIN SLOWS UP GERMAN DRIVE

Russians Hold For Another Day as Nazi Assaults on Stalingrad Weaken.

through counter-attacks in the northwest and central Caucasus.

Dispatches to Red Star said Russian troops guarding Stalingrad's northern factory section had "liquidated" a German breakthrough and declared that the fight for a nearby workers' settlement was now confined to a struggle for two streets on the outskirts, where Nazi veterans and reserves alike had failed to gain.

Front-line reports said Russian reinforcements, ferried across the Volga under a tempest of German artillery fire and bombing attacks, stemmed the Nazi drive into the factory district at the hour of gravest danger.

Other developments:

NAZI TERROR—Reports reaching Ankara, Turkey, said German firing-squads had executed 13 more alleged revolutionaries in Yugoslavia and that threats of revolt in Belgrade, capital of the conquered Balkan nation, had forced the Germans to strengthen the city's garrison by at least two regiments. More than 100 others had previously been reported shot in Belgrade.

EGYPTIAN CAMPAIGN—Fierce air battles raged over the desert front yesterday, possibly heralding an early resumption of the long-stalled land fighting.

Italy's high command said Italian aircraft shot down "scores" of British planes in "bitter and violent aerial engagements," while British headquarters reported that Allied squadrons shot down 11 Axis planes and destroyed others on the ground.

"Enemy air attacks on Malta were on a reduced scale," a British communique said.

Gibraltar had an air-raid alarm during the night and Italian planes dropped bombs on nearby Spanish territory, but none fell on the great rock fortress itself.

New Battleships In Service, Say British

LONDON —(AP)— Two powerful 35,000- ton battleships, the Anson and the Howe, each carrying ten 14-inch guns have moved into their stations in the British fleet and their commanders were reported spoiling for a fight with the great prize of the German fleet, the Battleship Tirpitz.

The British fleet has now reached its pre-war strength of 15 battleships and battle cruisers and at least four more battleships are under construction, including the Lion and the Temeraire, rated at 40,000 tons.

The Anson and the Howe are the last of the five great battleships of the King George V class to be commissioned. The Prince of Wales was sunk last December during a Japanese air attack off Malaya. The King George V and the Duke of York have been with the fleet for some time.

One of the Anson's first tasks was to help guard a Russia-bound convoy in the Arctic and her guns already have been in action against German aircraft, it was announced.

Reds Say U. S. Is Ready For Attack

MOSCOW — (AP) — Red Star, official organ of the Soviet army, asserted today that the United States is ready now in men and equipment to open active military operations.

(The Russian press has expressed the view with increasing frequency recently that Russia's Allies have the strength to undertake second front operations at once to relieve German pressure on the Soviet forces.)

"Successful fulfillment of war industry problems, growth of the army and airforce and accelerated naval construction create all the necessary conditions for active operations by the United States," Red Star said.

"They have enough men and machines. As to the training and operative ability of the army, this can be determined only in armed struggle."

SEEKS EXTRADITION

CANTON — (U.P.) — Assistant Stark county Prosecutor Walter Allman was in West Virginia today to secure extradition of Dominick Cocco, 35-year-old West Virginia state prisoner who is under indictment for the murder of Robert Efinger, Canton restaurant proprietor.

Ex-Bundists After Conviction

Some of the 24 former leaders of the German-American Bund convicted of conspiracy to counsel evasion of the Selective Service Act are shown outside New York federal court after the verdict was returned. One ex-Bundist, Ferdinand Callsen, was acquitted. The conviction carries a maximum sentence of five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

U. S. Lists Mansfield as One Of 10 Labor Surplus Cities

"We have had a large number of men in our office in recent weeks to ask about the possibility of getting work in Mansfield again so they wouldn't have to commute to Marion, Sandusky, Columbus, or other cities," he said.

Handley pointed out that many of the workers who have gone elsewhere own homes in Mansfield and would be wiling to work for a little less pay here in order to live more economically in their own properties.

There is a shortage now of certain types of skilled workers in Mansfield, Handley said. Among them are molders, core makers, machinists, and tool and die makers.

The War Manpower commission report did not even list Mansfield as one of the centers of anticipated labor shortages. In that classification were such cities as Columbus, Marion, Toledo, Youngstown, Loram-Elyria, Lima, Hamilton and Middletown.

The full potential supply of labor in the Mansfield area probably won't be exhausted for many months, Handley said, because women are training for war jobs and there are hundreds of men still working at non-essential jobs who could be shifted to war production work.

Learning that Mansfield had been placed in a surplus labor area, C. H. Henkel, chairman of the war industries committee of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce said:

"The War Industries committee of the Chamber of Commerce has had this definitely in mind, and efforts of the committee have been so directed There is a need for alertness and every possible effort to show that Mansfield is sincerely anxious to do everything possible to assist in the war effort, and so that the welfare of this community will be properly considered and will not suffer temporary or permanent set-back.

"This report further supports the reasons why the committee was appointed and justifies the committee's efforts to assist in accomplishing its objects and to properly co-operate with the government."

While reports from the U. S. Employment service show that the demand for workers is increasing in Mansfield, the city's industrial picture is still well below that of other Ohio cities of similar size.

The state treasurer's sales tax report for this week ending Oct. 10, released today, showed Richland county tax receipts still on the decline. Totals for the week amounted to $9,767 as compared with $10,145 in the corresponding week of last year. County collections so far this year are $139,205 under last year.

Sales tax receipts in Marion county, including the city of Marion, for the week ending Oct. 10, were $7,687, an increase of $1,010 over the corresponding week last year. For the year, Marion county has collected $288,393 in sales tax for a gain of $3,300 over last year.

Other Ohio centers included with Mansfield as having labor surpluses were Cincinnati, Coshocton, Fostoria, Portsmouth, Steubenville, Ironton, Zanesville, and Salem-East Liverpool.

Dillard E. Bird, manager of the U. S. Employment office in Cincinnati, estimated that there is a potential labor surplus of 30,000 workers in that city.

Commenting on the WMC report, Wade Hammond, state employment director, substantiated the report from Washington and added:

"Generally, we haven't reached the saturation point of employing workers. An actual shortage will be determined by the selective service drain on manpower, the willingness of women to accept jobs in industry and the voluntary migration of workers."

HITS DRIVING

Boals Says Motorists Must Observe Pedestrian Rules.

Declaring that pedestrians will be protected against "horn-honking motorists who hoggishly attempt to usurp the right-of-way at crosswalks," Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals today instructed a patrolman to file charges against a motorists who yesterday ran down a woman at West Second and South Mulberry streets.

Charles R. Rinehart, Butler, cut a corner at the intersection and his car injured Mrs. Marie Johnston, 126 Glenwood Heights, according to the report of Traffic Patrolman Robert Robnolte. Mrs. Johnston was treated at the nearby office of a physician for chest and knee bruises and a cut on her mouth. She had been walking with the green light when struck, Robnolte reported.

"There's too much of this type of violation," Boals said. "Too many motorists think that when they honk a horn the pedestrian should scurry to safety. It must be remembered that persons walking properly on crosswalks have the right-of-way."

All of the city's schools are continuing their campaigns this week in competition for a $25 war bond which will be awarded the winner by Supt. Miller. Only scrap collected this week will be credited to the schools in the war bond contest and the winner will be determined on the basis of per-pupil collections.

Mansfield and Richland county scrap drives during the past 10 weeks have produced 1,050 tons of iron and steel and 602,376 pounds of rubber, Salvage Chairman Stough reported today to Robert O. Weible, executive secretary of the Ohio Salvage committee.

Describing the collection as "definitely satisfactory," Stough estimated that 500 additional tons of scrap could be collected on Richland county farms and 200 tons in the cities and villages.

that he believed the tax load contained in the new bill already approached the maximum.

"Of course," George said, "we are going to have to go into the question of compulsory savings to help in financing the war. It may be that Mr. Morgenthau will bring back from London some ideas of what the British have accomplished in obtaining such forced loans and they may be useful to us."

Morgenthau has been in London on an undisclosed mission and his absence was regarded as likely to delay any new recommendations.

President Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday that he would sign the new measure before midnight tonight.

As the tax measure stands, it contained these major provisions:

A 5 per cent victory tax on individual income over $12 a week, with post-war credits. This was combined with stiff increases in the normal and surtax rates on net income and broadening of the base of the income tax by a cut in exemptions.

A 9 percentage point increase in corporation taxes on normal and surtax income and an elevation of the sliding scale of excess profits to a flat 90 per cent rate.

Increases in excise taxes on liquor, cigarets, cigars and other items, which would become effective Nov. 1.

WOMEN TO DRIVE CLEVELAND CABS

State OK's Their Employment, Studies Dayton Request.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Because of wartime conditions, women will be permitted to operate taxi cabs in Cleveland, an occupation heretofore restricted by Ohio law to men, George A. Strain, state director of industrial relations, said today.

He added that requests to allow women taxi drivers to operate in Dayton would receive early consideration.

Adair said he was notified of the woman's death only after relatives visiting the Kraus home asked a physician to report the death.

MANPOWER BILL BEING DRAFTED

cal and seasonal difficulties involved in legislation for drafting of men for farm and industrial work.

Senators Austin (R., Vt.), and Hill (D., Ala.), who have bills to that effect before the committee, declared compulsory manpower mobilization offered the only solution.

A different view was taken by senator Downey (D., Calif.) who told reporters that a labor draft would "not do the job."

President Roosevelt told his pres conference that 3,000 Mexicans had crossed into Arizona and California in the last three weeks to help save crops.

Senator Austin's bill would put the whole problem up to the selective service system, to which the manpower commission and other agencies would refer their requirements, just as the army now does.

Madison Gets In First Punch In Big Football Week-End

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Oh, Happy Day! Portsmouth Fears Mansfield!

Massillon, according to the Canton Repository, has a "breather" this week at Mansfield. And the same paper says Canton McKinley will have a slight letup in its schedule on Nov. 7 when the Bulldogs play Mansfield.

So it must be balm on the ruffled spirit of once mighty Mansfield to learn that the Trojans fear the Tygers. Here's what the Portsmouth Times says about it:

"If the 26-7 loss to Springfield in the hectic game two weeks ago is any real indication of the comparative strength of the two bitter opponents—and local fans believe it isn't—the Trojans will be in for a severe trouncing on the week following the Middletown game.

"Then their opponents will be a Mansfield eleven that evened the Springfield Wildcats' season record with two victories and two defeats, by margining the proteges of Coach Jim MacDonald 6-0."

Oh, come, let's sing a Portsmouth psalm.
For dishing out that bit of balm.

Scout Vern Hoffman believes the Tygers have a good chance to take Portsmouth next week "if we come out of the Massillon game in good physical condition."

Hoffman reports Portsmouth has a big line, stout as a rock where it stands, but lacking maneuverability, and he believes that if the Tyger speed merchants once break loose they can ramble for long gains.

"But then I haven't seen the Tygers play," says Hoffman who has spent each week-end watching future opponents.

More from the Canton Repository:

"Massillon's battered Tigers get a badly needed breather Friday when they journey to meet a Mansfield team that is far below standard this year, but showed improvement last week. Massillon probably will rest its regulars as much as posible in an effort to have them in top shape by the McKinley game."

* * *

Football, football is a funny game,
Guards and tackles do the work
And halfbacks get the fame.

* * *

Dear Boss: If I wind up with a cold this coming week-end, don't be surprised. Here's my outdoor schedule for the week: Appleseed vs. Madison reserves at Appleseed yesterday afternoon, Simpson vs. Galion reserves at Stadium field this afternoon, Madison vs. Marion St. Mary's at Madison tomorrow night, and Mansfield vs. Massillon at Stadium field Friday night. Will someone please see that I am properly introduced to my family again come Saturday or Sunday?

Conservation Board Meets

Waters Doubts Early Hunting Date Set Up.

JACKSON — (AP) — Members of the state conservation and natural resources commission gathered here today for their October meeting to consider requests for advancing the Nov. 20 opening date of the hunting season because of prospective gasoline rationing.

Conservation Commissioner Don G. Waters said about 10 communications requesting the advance had been received but expressed doubt that the recommendations would be followed.

Observing that only a short interval remained before hunters would be afield after rabbits, ringneck pheasants, Hungarian partridges and other game, Waters said:

The later opening was scheduled, Waters explained, so hunters would not hamper soybean harvests in northwestern Ohio and because colder weather was expected to reduce the danger of nimrods contracting tularemia, or rabbit fever.

Line Play Wins for Buckeyes

Half-Step Advantage Foils Opposing Giants.

By JOHN H. COLBURN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Tip-top line play—often unnoticed as spectators watch a speedy ball handler—is credited by Ohio State coaches with a great part of the Bucks' football success this season.

Rangy, heavy opposition linesmen virtually have been pushed around the field by Ohio's alert, fast-charging forward wall.

"And that half a step you get on your opponent marks the difference between a play's success and failure," said Coach Paul Brown, whose team was rated the No. 1 college squad of the nation for the second straight week by sports writers.

* * *

"We've got some good ball carriers, but they wouldn't look half so good if our guards, tackles, ends and center didn't get some of the opposing linesmen out of the way. And they've got to be sound defensive players to hold the other team in check."

Charles Csuri, the 195-pound tackle from Cleveland, is rated by Brown as an outstanding man at that position.

"They're just not doing a thing to him," Brown observed.

Hal Dean of Wooster is playing an improved game at one guard and at the other, Lynn Houston of Massillon is regarded by the coaches as a much better player than a year ago.

Two sophomores won starting line posts and one, Tackle William Willis of Columbus, has been in the thick of play all season. The other rookie, End Dante Lavelli of Hudson, has been plagued by injuries.

Big Bob Shaw of Fremont continues to play a stellar end game and : one of the Western conference's outstanding pass receivers. At the other end in Lavelli's place next Saturday will be William Sedor of Shadyside.

Fullback Gene Fekete of Findlay and Halfback Paul Sarringhaus of Hamilton have handled the bulk of the ball-carrying chores, with Halfback Leslie Horvath of Cleveland and Captain-Quarterback George Lynn of Niles making up the remainder of the first string backfield.

Fekete, a sophomore, is the midwest's leading scorer.

Sarringhaus saw little service last year because of his inability to block and a weakness in pass defense, but Brown says:

"He's getting so he can really block—and hit hard now."

The best pass defender is Tommy James and the bullseye cracking passer is George Slusser, both Massillon lightweights. James weighs 155, Slusser 170.

Bivins Beats Bob Pastor

Decision Protested By Bicycling Robert.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—With decisions over highly regarded Bob Pastor and Tami Mauriello in his last two scraps, Jimmy Bivins deserves a spot well up in the heavyweight ranks today.

The punching Cleveland Negro, who normally fights as a light heavy, tacked on a couple of extra pounds last night and grabbed a split decision from a surprised and indignant Pastor who landed far more blows, although they weren't quite so sharp. The 10576 faithful who entrusted $35,908 to Matchmaker Larry Atkins' care at the Cleveland arena seemed evenly divided on the verdict.

Bicycling Bob provoked at the ruling, declaring "I won my last 14 fights and I didn't lose this one." Although Pastor twice slipped to one knee for no count, there were no knockdowns as in their first encounter six months ago when Robert won after hitting the floor in the first two rounds.

* * *

As a result, a third match appears inevitable between the 21-year-old Bivins, who at 177½ spotted the New Yorker seven pounds, and Pastor, now 28 and talking of enlisting in the marines early next year.

Bivins and the winner of the Lee Savold-Mauriello bout in New York Oct. 30 may fill a Nov. 27 date in Madison Square Garden.

CLEVELAND RAMS AIM FOR THIRD

CLEVELAND —(INS)— With a record of two victories and four defeats, the Cleveland Rams today went through their paces in preparation for their battle with the third place Chicago Cardinals Sunday with an eye on that spot for themselves.

RICKEY ADMITS HE HAS HEARD OF DODGER JOB

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The post of general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers remained open today but the presence of Branch Rickey for a reported "showdown" conference indicated today that the St. Louis Cardinals' executive had the inside track for the job.

Rickey arrived here last night by plane from St. Louis and, while refusing to comment on the Dodgers' position, admitted he planned to sever relations with the Cardinals.

"I've heard the report about the Brooklyn offer, of course," Rickey said, "but I can not discuss it."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The way Ned Irish looks at it, the entries for this year's fall basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden—three service teams and one aircraft corporation—may represent a "trend." . . . And it's a good bet that he's right. Most of the coaches partaking of Ned's free groceries yesterday were wondering if they'll have teams left by the time the season rolls around. . . . One of the marines now fighting on Guadalcanal island is Wes Bennett, the former Westminster college sharpshooter. . . . And you couldn't ask for a better guy to toss bombs into fox holes.

OLD HOME WEEK.

When the Manhattan beach coast guard football team plays at Toledo Oct. 31, it ought to be designated as the coast guardsmen's "homecoming" game. . . . Ensign Gar Griffith, head coach of the squad, is an old Ohio State player. So are his playing assistant, Esko Sarkkinen, and players Joe Aleskus and George Sting, and Larry Gligor, first assistant coach, comes from Mt. Union college in Ohio. . . . To complete the official family, Lieut. B. F. Mooney, who is helping Jack Dempsey with the station's physical fitness program, used to be the Ohio State wrestling coach.

SCRAP COLLECTION.

Latest rating of eastern football teams by the Lambert trophy committee puts Boston college on top, Penn second and Army and Fordham tied for third. . . . Proceeds of this year's Army-Notre Dame football rally will be divided between the Notre Dame scholarship fund and the army emergency relief.

The Fort Monmouth, N. J., boxing team has just scheduled a boxing meet with the British royal navy men who are stationed at nearby Asbury park—which is one way of cementing friendly relations.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT.

Before the Fordham-West Virginia game last week, the Fordham tub thumper asked a West Virginian how to pronounce the name of Ed Kulakowski, big Mountaineer tackle. . . . "You ought to know," came the answer. "You've had the experience."

Madison Reserves Score 13-7 Win Over Appleseed

A Johnny Appleseed junior high eleven that showed fighting ability on the defense, held Madison reserves to a 13-7 score yesterday afternoon on the Appleseed gridiron.

Madison was paced by Eccles, first string backfield sub on Ram Hill, whose driving speed and experience enabled him to get away on numerous long dashes that kept Appleseed pushed back in its own territory throughout the first half.

In the first quarter Appleseed held once on its 10 yard line where Madison failed to advance the ball a foot in four downs, and later recovered a fumble on its eight yard line.

Early in the second period Eccles rambled back to the 10 yard line for another first down, picked up four yards through the line, and while Appleseed waited for him to carry the ball again Stoner scored on a 61-yard quarterback sneak. Eccles ran the end for the extra point.

Madison was on the march again late in the quarter when Stuckey intercepted a pass and ran it back 40 yards to the Madison 35 yard line.

A 60-yard rolling punt by Eccles to the Appleseed goal line put the Pioneers in the hole again early in the third quarter, and the return punt went out of bounds on the 20. Eccles made it first down on the nine, then plunged to the three, and scored from there. The try for point fizzled and it was 13-0.

Then Appleseed put Fullback Campbell to work. He made one first down on the Madison 43 and another on the 30 before Madison recovered a fumble and kicked out.

* * *

Bob Bishop got away on a long jaunt on an end-around to the Madison 27. Campbell plowed to a first on the 11. And drove over in two plays for a touchdown, aided by a five-yard penalty against Madison for offside. Campbell plunged for the point.

Appleseed turned back one more Madison threat on its 18-yard line in the closing minutes.

Shutout and Alsab Battle for Title

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The three-year-old championship may be decided at Jamaica today when Alsab and Shut Out meet for the first time since the Belmont stakes last June.

The brilliant pair of three-year-olds will pick up top-weight of 124 pounds as they head a field of eight named for the $15,000 Gallant Fox handicap over a mile and five furlongs route.

Shutout, with two victories over Alsab, can "lock up" the three-year-old crown if he outruns the Sabath star again today. The 'Sab,' who trailed Shut Out in the Derby and Belmont and beat him in the Preakness, will clinch at least a tie for the title if he wins.

BUCYRUS PREPARES FOR CRESTLINE TILT

BUCYRUS—Coach Nick Wasylik is putting his Redmen through the paces this week preparatory to meeting Coach Merle Hutson's Crestline gridders here Friday night.

With the exception of Bob Davis and Jack Shuck, who are recovering from serious infections, the team will be intact again for the Friday tilt.

Changes to appear in the Friday lineup will include Teets in the guard position replacing Shaner and Teynor at center instead of Driscoll.

Rams Battle Marion St. Mary's Tomorrow

Tygers Work With New Spirit In Preparing For Massillon Game

IT'S THE big week of the football season for Mansfield, with the Massillon game at Stadium field Friday night taking top booking for the entire schedule.

Meanwhile Madison high school Rams, taking no chance on competition in drawing power with Mighty Massillon, gets in the first punch in this big grid week-end by tangling with Marion St. Mary's on Ram hill tomorrow night at 8:15.

"We have plenty of respect for St. Mary's," Madison Mentor Al Fendrick declared today. "Last year we beat them 12-0 and the year before they beat us 6-0. They have about a 50-50 record for this season, and our only real comparison of strength is the 12-0 victory Crestline scored over the Marion team before losing to Galion 7-0.

"From here it looks like we are evenly matched for this game, and I believe we have a good chance of winning," Al opined.

Fendrick reported the Rams will be at full strength for the St. Mary's game. Bob Anthony's arm, badly bruised in the Columbus North tilt, is returning to normal, and Willie Wynne, also injured in the North game, is back in shape again. Wynne played most of last week's game against Loudonville, but was not at top form.

Anthony's injury enabled Fendrick to discover a new hard-running halfback last week when he moved Gross from end into the backfield, and the Ram coach indicated today he would keep Gross in the ball toting department. He also expects to give Eccles, a promising forward passer, plenty of work in the backfield.

Fendrick has given the Rams three new plays to toss at the Marion club tomorrow night, and believes he may need them as St. Mary's continually changes defensive tactics forcing the opposition to learn many different blocking assignments.

On offense St. Mary's, with a line averaging 165 pounds, uses the Massillon system, strong on off-tackle plays.

Out at Mansfield high school Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers are going to work with new spirit this week, keyed up by their surprise victory over Springfield and the knowledge that they are going against Massillon's powerful state champions.

Snyder announced last night he would stand pat on the same lineup that started against Springfield, but indicated that the slightest injury would be a signal for replacements.

"I'm going to insist that the officials watch for unnecessary roughness, such as piling on and blocking after the whistle blows ending a play," declared Snyder who remembers that Adam Brandt was lost to the Tygers for the rest of the season last year when he was clipped long after the whistle had ended a play. Incidentally that part of the Massillon movie of last year's Mansfield game was cut from the film before it was shown here.

Officials for the game will be Earl "Monk" Gross of New Philadelphia, A. B. Long of Newark and O. V. Boone of Canton.

The thousand seats still available yesterday for the Massillon game had been reduced to 500 last night, Ticket Director George Sherman announced. All seats in the main stands are gone, and the few remaining seats are in the north end bleachers and along the cinder track.

Sherman estimated a thousand standing room tickets will be available the night of the game. There will be no reduction in price for the standing room ducats..

The North Central Ohio league race, now virtually conceded to Marion after its 14-13 victory over Ashland, takes a holiday this week. Marion meets Sandusky at Marion, Ashland goes to Wooster to renew an old rivalry, Bucyrus plays host to Crestline with the Redmen hoping for their first victory Friday, while on Saturday Shelby plays the powerful Canton Lincoln team. Galion and Mt. Vernon are idle.

Championship of Richland county's Class B schools will be settled at Butler Friday afternoon when the Bulldogs tangle with Bellville in their annual neighborhood battle. Last week Butler traveled to Mt. Vernon for a game with the Yellow Jacket reserves, but found that Mt. Vernon had failed to sign a contract for the game, and none was played.

Among Mansfield's remaining opponents for the season, Portsmouth meets Middletown, Canton McKinley meets a strong Alliance team, and Toledo Woodward tangles with Toledo Central. Last week Woodward lost to Toledo Devilbiss 6-0 on a first period touchdown.

NAVY INDUCTION

An added patriotic feature of the between-halves program at the Mansfield-Massillon football game Friday night will be the induction of six Mansfield area youths into the U. S. Navy, it was announced today.

ASSERT JURORS TALKED DURING PERJURY TRIAL

Lucas Women Sign Affidavits as Mrs. Buzzard Asks For New Trial.

ASHLAND — Supported by affidavits signed by Gertrude Gehrish and Charlotte Brubaker, both of Lucas, stating that two members of the jury which returned a verdict of perjury against Mrs. Kathryn Boeh Buzzard last Friday discussed the case and that one expressed a decided opinion, motion for new trial has been filed in Ashland common pleas court by Mrs. Buzzard through her attorneys, J. L. Mason and Howard S. Lutz.

The affidavits state that the two women heard Guy M. Smith and F. W. Smith, jurors, discuss the case and that they heard the former tell the latter that "she ought to be in jail and a lot more like her."

In the motion for new trial it is charged that Guy M. Smtih, as shown by the affidavits, "expressed a decided opinion that the defendant was guilty and attempted to influence F. W. Smith," and that both jurors stated on examination that they had not discussed the case and had not formed an opinion. The new trial is also sought on ten grounds of error and that the verdict was not sustained by the evidence and was contrary to law.

Judge Clarence Ahl of Bucyrus, who was assigned to the Ashland county court to hear the perjury case which arose from testimony given in the divorce suit of Mrs. Buzzard against her former husband, George Boeh, will hear arguments on the motion for new trial Saturday.

M'SWEENEY RIPS GOP PLATFORM DURING RALLY

Bucyrus Band Leads Parade as Democrats Open Crawford Campaign.

BUCYRUS — John McSweeney, Wooster, Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, opened the Democratic campaign in Crawford county Tuesday night, as the headline speaker in a public rally at Bucyrus high school.

The speaking program, which included an address by Brooks Fletcher, congressional candidate from the Eighth district, followed a parade led by the High School band from Washington square to the high school building.

The principal speaker outlined the Democratic platform, contrasting it with the Republican platform which he said "contains 387 neat sounding phrases which tell nothing, promise nothing and offer nothing."

The administration's tax program, which has been a principal issue of the campaign was touched upon by the speaker who said, "If I have the honor of becoming your governor the present administration's practice of double taxation will be stopped."

McSweeney spoke at 7:30 p. m. to permit him to fill a speaking engagement in Marion later in the evening.

Fletcher assailed the lend-lease negative vote of his opponent, Congressman Frederick C. Smith and declared further that his opponent had opposed "all earlier provisions for defense plans." He also said that he knew that the Republicans in Washington did not favor a landslide change because the "world would then know that America is divided."

Fletcher was followed by T. J. Duffy, candidate for the Supreme court, who pleaded with his audience to pay more attention to the judicial ballot. Local candidates spoke briefly.

In a session that was delayed one hour while city councilmen attended the Democratic rally at the high school, council voted to comply with a request for wage increases to sewage disposal plant employes and passed legislation providing for the installation of an electric pump at the city water pumping plant in compliance with demands recently made by Ohio insurance underwriters, who threatened insurance rate increases unless a more adequate water supply could be secured.

Council also passed legislation providing for the issuance of $5,000 in bonds for the purpose of improving the bathhouse and the premises of the swimming pool at Aumiller park for the further purpose of acquiring and installing suitable equipment for the proper operation of the pool.

BELLEVILLE, Ill.—(U.P.)—A $2,450 granite memorial to American soldiers and sailors killed at Pearl Harbor has been unveiled in Clinton Hill cemetery in Belleville.

The monument was erected by George E. Hoffman, 67-year-old farmer, who said he was inspired to construct the shaft by his nephew, George E. Hoffman, 25. The nephew was stationed at Pearl Harbor aboard a destroyer, but he escaped injury.

The monument bears the coats of arms of the Navy, the Army and Air Corps.

contingent of naval enlistees leaving for training.

Collapsing on receipt of the message, Mrs. Kopchok was revived and later she removed a picture of Paul from its frame and tearfully kissed the portrait of her first-born.

"I last heard from Paul in August," the mother related as she dried her tears. "He's a fine boy and I will pray that he is safe as the message does not destroy hope."

Another son, George, will leave Nov. 14 for naval duty. A younger brother, John, and two sisters, Sue Ann and Katherine, complete the Kopchok family.

Paul attended John Simpson Junior high school and served in several CCC camps before enlisting in the Navy.

Lieutenant Harrington has spent two years in the naval services. He lived in Mansfield before entering the sea forces. His wife and two small children live in Chicago.

On Oct. 14 Mrs. Audrey Hyatt, 398 Hammond avenue, received word that her husband, Elmo Jewett Hyatt, was missing following sea battles in the far Pacific.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Bulletin Board.

The Wallace Beerys may reconcile. They've been talking it over on those recent dates . . . Ginger Rogers has decided that Philip Reed is Simply Dreamy . . . Backstage gossip at a "Sons o' Fun" insists that Wynn Murray and her Dr. Harry Lee have had it annulled, very quietly . . . Bruce MacFarlane and Joan Tompkins, both of "My Sister Eileen," are Mr. and Mrs. Academy Award winner Herman Mankiewicz and Writer John O'Hara aren't talking—but over the silliest incident! . . . Maestro Harry James and Showgirl Doris Dowling are a heart toddy . . . Sol Lesser, who is looking for an "Eileen" for "Stage Door Canteen" will stop looking when he looks at Mary Ann O'Brien.

Jean Negulesco, who really does etchings, is inviting starlet Ruth Brady up to see them . . . Remember Frankie Thomas, who made such a hit as a child actor in the Broadway district a few years ago? He's now in the battle zone . . . Joe Frisco, the comic at the 18 Club, has a Canadian heiress in a dither—a member of the fabulous McMartin clan . . . Peggy Tibbett, the model, will waltz down the aisle with Lieut. John Ridley of Atlanta and the Navy.

Georgie Jessel has "lost" Billy Raphael to Sammy Renick, the jockey—which is where he got her originally . . . The reports linking Luise Rainer and Stokowski have crushed Philip Bloom, Jean Dalrymple's aid . . . Joyce Matthews (Mrs. Milton) Berle is completely recovered from her recent illness . . . The Earl Carroll-Hotel Morrison night club deal in Chicago—rumored "killed by the Chicago mob—is on again. Carroll plans to open next month with an all-girl show . . . Eddy Duchin, now in Morale, has requested active service with the Navy . . . Leatrice Joy Gilbert, daughter of two of Hollywood's most famous silent screen stars, is working as a riveter in the Douglas airplane factory. . . .

* * *

Harry Richman is working out with Prize Fighter Bob Olin, to toughen himself up for the armed forces . . . Jack Hopkins, the wealthy young Clevelander whose wooing of Linda Darnell and Judy Garland were once items, has put a sparkler on the finger of Mary Ganly, the Copacabana siren . . . The most popular soldier (with the other soldiers) in Miami Beach is Clark Gable. And he calls the army "the most wonderful experience of my life" . . . Billy Rose has given the Diamond Horseshoe showgirls a weekly day off. Anne Mace was the first of the beauties to get the holiday. And where do you think she asked her beau to take her? Why, of course—the Diamond Horseshoe.

Gypsy Rose Lee is mad at the magazine that bought and paid for six pieces she wrote, but hasn't used any of them and that was six months ago. She's asked the editors to publish them or send them back . . . Mrs. Darryl Zanuck delayed her trip to the Coast for three days so she could accompany Mervyn LeRoy, and let him direct the baggage, train-changing, etc.. Pat "Honeychile" Wilder has finally arranged to return to the U. S. after her six months of being stranded in South America . . . Toscanini will break all precedent by making recordings of George Gershwin tunes.

Blaine Faber, husband of glamor girl Josephine Johnson, has gone south to join the Navy. Glenn Ford has gifted Eleanor Powell with an old Inca love ring said to be worth plenty of moola . . . Victor Payne Jennings and Mrs. Michael Stone are a Heartillery barrage . . . The Maughm Goulds (Susan Close) are knitting tiny garments . . . Since so many of the glamor lads are now playing leads for Uncle Sam, the No. 1 choice of Hollywood's feminine stars who can pick their heroes is Humphrey Bogart, who used to be a heavy.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

(One of a series by Robbin Coons on his cross-country tour.)

NEW YORK—Montage sequence: Manhattan:

Close-up shot of hurrying feet: millions of 'em. Big feet, little feet, dainty feet, grotesque feet. New shoes, old shoes, scuffed shoes, shoes down at the heel and worn at the toe. Pavement pounding. What a beating those sidewalks of New York do take, and how they hand it back! What a market for foot-powders, corn cures, shoe shines! What a colossal, mass dog-ache! . . .

Coons

Close-up, interior cross-town streetcar. Crowded, of course. Morning rush. Harassed, tight-lipped woman, probably an office worker, rises to leave, bumps against a standing man. "You HAVE to take up the whole aisle?" she grumbles. He's irritable, too. "Lady, you want me to hang out a window?" For a block they growl until the car stops. Just routine pleasantries, short of open war. Pleasant day ahead for chip-on-the-shoulder New Yorkers . . . Big-city jitters, no doubt. . . . Reflection, only trouble with New York is all those other people—but it wouldn't be New York without 'em. . . .

His torso and his legs form an irregular ironic "V-for-Victory." He is out cold. Pedestrians step around the body without a second glance. Dialogue: "Just a drunk. He'll come to or be taken in after a while." Manhattan routine. Just a drunk.

PANTOMIME sequence, shot from a bus-window. A slim, mannishly dressed girl waits at a street corner. She consults a wrist watch, scowls, lights a cigaret vehemently. She steps out in the street, waves an impatient, beckoning arm at someone offstage. Our "mike" cannot hear her dialogue, but our camera can read her lips, as she delivers a few pointed remarks to the approaching object of her wrath. We think Mr. Hays will suggest the scissors . . .

ARMY RECRUIT CARAVAN STOPS IN CITY FRIDAY

Military Band and Mobile Unit To Parade, Boost Enlistment of 18-19-Year-Olds.

Young men of 18 and 19 years of age will have their opportunity to talk over their enlistment into the United States army when the Army's recruiting caravan comes to Mansfield Friday and Saturday.

Headed by a 25-piece military band, an Army jeep, mobile unit, and Army trucks, representatives from the Columbus recruiting district will bring more than a touch of Army color to this community.

The caravan will be located in Central park.

"We are coming to Mansfield for the purpose of assisting young men between the ages of 18 and 19 who still can choose any branch of the service they want," Captain T. J. Childress, U. S. Army, executive officer from recruiting headquarters, pointed out.

"When the new draft law goes into effect our young men may not have this opportunity any more," he warned. "Practically every 18 and 19 year old knows where he would like to serve his country; now is his chance to get just that."

Following are the branches of service from which to choose: air force, infantry, cavalry, engineers, signal corps, armored force, quartermaster, ordnance, medical department, military police, chemical warfare, field artillery, and coast artillery, either harbor defense or anti-aircraft.

During their stay a parade will be organized and concerts will be given by the band which comprises men from many name bands of the country.

Before any enlistment of 18 and 19 years old is accepted he must have his parents' consent. Forms for this purpose will be available at the caravan.

A special home delivery demonstration will also be given for instructors, Nov. 10, by Miss Marjorie Palmer of the Visiting Nurses' association. Miss Palmer presented the same demonstration at the Red Cross workshop at Battle Creek, Mich., the past summer.

GETS BEQUEST

Amity Church Allowed $2,000 From Dr. Nichols' Estate.

The Amity Baptist church, of Knox county, will receive a bequest of $2,000 from the estate of the late Dr. J. H. Nichols, according to a finding by Probate Judge S. H. Cramer yesterday on the declaratory action of Mrs. Bertha Nichols, executrix.

Mrs. Nichols, in her action, contended that the church was not in existence at the time of Dr. Nichols' death in May, 1941, and hence was not eligible to share in the estate under the terms of the will. Evidence was introduced to show that the church, founded in 1847, had continued to operate since that time with occasional periods of inactivity.

RETIRED JUSTICE DIES

AUGUSTA, Me. —(AP)— William R. Pattangall, 77, retired chief justice of the Maine supreme court, died today.

AAA OFFERING SOYBEAN LOANS, BINS FOR STORING RECORD CROP

With Richland county farmers harvesting a record soybean crop which may have to be held in storage until next spring, the AAA is offering loans on the beans and bins for storing the crop, Chairman Guy L. Taylor of the county AAA committee said today.

The government loans to farmers will be available at the rate of $1.60 per bushel with one cent advance storage added monthly until June 1. The increase begins in January. On that basis, the farmer would be assured of $1.61 per bushel for his soybeans in January and $1.65 per bushel in June. It would therefore be to the farmer's advantage to hold his crop until May or June, Taylor said.

The crop is big this year because the government urged farmers to grow more beans to provide oil needed in war industries and because the price of beans is higher now.

Taylor pointed out that a preharvest freeze in the western states damaged the beans and they must be processed immediately to prevent spoiling. The influx of the crop from the west will overload processing plants and force farmers in Ohio and Indiana to hold their crop until late winter or spring.

Taylor said the AAA in the county has 71 bins available for storing beans. They range in capacity from 660 to 1,950 bushels. Some of the bins will be placed on individual farms while others will be used by the county AAA committee to store beans taken as security for loans by the Commodity Credit corporation.

KILLED BY PIPE

DIAMOND —(INS)— Charles G. Lucas, 43, of Diamond, was killed by a pipe on a hoisting engine while at work in the Carnegie-Illinois plant at North Braddock, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

To most residents of the neighborhood the structure at the rear of 649 Olivesburg road was just a vacant house. But it was more than that in the imaginations of two little boys, aged four and five, who live near by. They were playing war the other day, and the house looked to them like an enemy fort bristling with imaginary guns. So they attacked—with stones for hand grenades. Today, the boys' parents had advised police they would pay for broken windows and other damage.

Maps and more maps picturing strategical points in the theater of war are needed by the American history and current events classes of Mansfield Senior high school. In issuing a call for maps Miss Margaret Tinsley, instructor, has asked for old copies of the National Geographic magazine in which maps pertinent to the war may be found. She particularly wants maps of the East Pacific, Africa, Asia and the Far East.

Aiding in the project were Mary Baker, Billie McQuillen, Ramona Frederick, Betty Roth, Manna Marie McQuaid, and two Y. M. C. A. secretaries, Bertha A. Gregory and Mrs. Robert Crane.

BALLOTING TO BE LIGHTEST IN 16 YEARS

Neffner Predicts No More Than 1,750,000 Votes To Be Cast at Polls on Nov. 3.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Interest in the war will cut the voting down to about 1,750,000 ballots, or just about half of the total cast in the 1940 election, George M. Neffner, chief statistician in the office of Secretary of State John E. Sweeney, estimated today.

"The vote will be the lightest since 1926, when only 1,396,272 citizens cast ballots for governor," said Neffner. "It will be the first time since then that the vote has fallen substantially below two million. In 1940, with the third term issue in the presidential contest lending interest, 3,376,239 voters went to the polls."

Sweeney's aide attributed the lack of interest to the much greater cause of the war.

"People now are interested in only one thing," he said "and that is winning the war. They are too busy to take an interest in the electioneering, particularly since war news crowds politics from the front pages.

"In addition, there is the lack of any great state issue. Both party platforms, for instance, open with a pledge to support the war effort. Where is there a contest in that?"

Neffner indicated that his 1,750,000 estimate was a maximum figure and stated that it "might have to be revised" downward. At the August 11 primary, he pointed out, only 747,231 voters turned out, the lowest number since women were granted the ballot in 1920.

In August, Governor Bricker, unopposed for nomination for his third term as chief executive, polled 350,730 votes, as against the 318,647 the five Democrats, paced by John McSweeney, split.

Despite all attempts by Sweeney to make absentee voting easier for those in the armed forces, Neffner said that the response was not up to expectations. While making no estimate as to the number of absentee voter ballots sent out by local boards—the requests are transferred to the county seats—he did say that the response had been "disappointing."

"You might say," he added, "that requests for soldier ballots continue to pour in, but still they will not be a factor in electing a governor."

As to the light vote in 1926, Neffner attributed that to an "almost foregone conclusion" in the minds of the voters that Vic Donahey would be re-elected, and hence saw no great necessity for voting that year.

Pheasant Hunters Get No Help From State Commission

JACKSON — (U.P.) — The state conservation commission today refused to help Ohio hunters evade gasoline rationing by moving up the opening date for the fall and winter hunting season.

The season for pheasant, rabbit, Hungarian partridge and ruffed grouse opens at noon Nov. 20 and gasoline rationing is scheduled to become effective two days later.

A number of requests that the commission move up the opening date to permit hunters to get to the fields before rationing starts were considered at the commission's regular monthly meeting.

It was decided that such action would be "unpatriotic."

Some hunters requested that the season opening be moved up at least five days since the Nov. 20 opening is five days later than in the past.

PASSING DREAM + + +

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XXVI

When Temple regained consciousness, she was lying on two chairs and was looking at Harry and at the rough, kind face of the bartender. The newspaper was still on the table . . . The words were still there . . .

Gus said, "You're okay, Kid. We'll give them Japs hell."

But Harry was looking at her searchingly . . . "Temple, is that why . . ."

She shook her head and the tears rolled down her face . . .

"No . . . The paper . . . Jud is dead . . . He's dead . . . It's Jud."

For an instant he looked at her as though he did not believe she knew what she was saying. Then taking the paper he glanced quickly at several articles . . . He looked at her again.

"Judson Amory," he said.

Temple shook her head. "No," she said. "My husband."

When she said that she was able to walk, Harry led her out to the car and they rode a little way into the country.

"I can't take you back to your room," he said. "I wish I could take you to your mother."

Temple had cried until she could cry no more. Later she wondered what people on the street thought of her. But people on the street, people everywhere that day, were thinking only of Pearl Harbor.

She was thinking of Jud.

Harry asked, "What do you want me to do, Temple?"

Straight and still and white she sat beside him.

"I don't know . . . Wait . . . I want you to call Mrs. Santos and ask her how it happened." She gave him Mrs. Santos' full name and address. "They wouldn't notify me. They would notify his mother . . ."

"Shall I call his mother and explain the circumstances?"

His mother? . . . "She wouldn't remember me. She probably wouldn't believe it."

"You're his wife."

"Yes, I'll have to go to Boston . . . Oh, I can't! I can't! But I must . . . I am as much his wife as if I'd lived with him ten years and had children . . . And yet it was only for three days."

The blurred scenes moved so quickly that later she could scarcely remember them.

In the apartment of Harry's friends she sat and heard him call Boston. Because Jud's mother had remarried and Temple did not know her new name Harry talked to several people in Boston before some one also named Amory supplied the necessary information which led to Jud's mother. Then he talked to someone about the accident while for Temple the earth was shaking again.

Then he turned to her and said, "You can't go to Boston, Temple. It's being done in Florida. His mother has gone. There isn't time for you to go."

It was hours later before she realized why they had not brought him back to Boston. Hours later when Harry had left her at the boarding house because all men in the service had been called to their posts . . . Abby was with her . . . The radios in the house were screaming. Pearl Harbor! . . . Pearl Harbor!

Abby was talking about the Philippines . . . The Philippines had been attacked, too, and Miles was in the Philippines. . . . Abby held Temple's hand and said kind, soothing things . . . She gave her water to drink and stayed with her through the night.

* * *

Harry came to her room in the morning after Abby had gone. He looked tired.

"I talked to Mrs. Santos' daughter in Florida last night, Temple. She's coming to Washington in a few days. She knows all about it and she wants to see you."

He lighted a cigaret and walked to the window. "I wonder if you'll forgive me for being as stupid as I have been. I thought you were unhappy over your first little love affair which you would get over as quickly as one gets over a cold. That's why I've been both harsh and flippant with you. But it wasn't a little love affair. It was a marriage. However brief, it was a marriage. It was a marriage that was making you unhappy. But I came to ask you what you are going to do and what I can do to help you.

"You're leaving Washington?" Once more her heart stirred in pain.

"Not immediately. But you are, aren't you?"

"I haven't thought of it. I can't think ahead."

"You can't sit in this room looking at four walls, thinking about it day after day. You hate your job. There will be new jobs opening up. Why don't you go home for a while."

"I can't go anywhere until I see Thalia Santos . . . We're going to be in the war, aren't we?"

He nodded.

He lifted his voice. "But are you going to sit here until that girl comes? Just sit here, thinking about it?"

"Yes, I am. I want to think about it. I want to think about it from the beginning to the end. I loved him . . . I never understood him exactly. I never knew why he said some of the things he said and why, with everything he had, he had such a sick view on life and people . . . Some of it I did understand, but not all of it. I've been thinking of it all night and I can't decide whether he was bored with life or whether life was bored with him . . . Maybe life was bored with him because nothing was ever good enough for him." She looked up quickly. "This doesn't make sense to you. I wasn't really talking to you."

"It doesn't have to make sense to me now, Temple."

"Did Mrs. Benson give you permission to come to my room?"

"Of course. Your friend Abby explained to her and the others because she wanted them to keep their radios toned down. Or maybe my uniform softened her heart. On the street today it seems that every other man is in uniform."

"Peace to war in a moment and life to death in a moment. Abby's fiance is in the Philippines . . . I didn't realize until after you left why they did not take Jud home to Boston. The plane caught fire. Isn't that right? I'm glad they didn't take him home. He didn't have a real home there. He had one in Florida and he was happy there. I went down to see him in October. Or did I tell you that yesterday?"

"No. You told me very little yesterday about your marriage."

"I thought I told you everything."

"You were thinking everything."

"If I had not been half unconscious I wouldn't have told you that I was married. I broke my word. I promised him I wouldn't tell anyone about it until after the war."

He smiled. "You are going up to Boston under your own steam. You probably wouldn't have made it, but you were going to try. Well, I've got to be off. I'll keep in touch with you and see you in a few days."

"You've been very good to me."

At the door he looked back and smiled again. "I'm going to send a doctor up to see you this afternoon to give you something to make you sleep. Of all the things I wanted to be to you the least of them was paternal. I'll see you, Temple."

For the next few days it was as it had been when she had first come to Washington . . . staying indoors and hearing its working people come and go. They were kind young people. They brought her flowers and fruit and candy, remaining only long enough to tell her they were sorry and was there anything they could do for her. They tried not to speak of the war, but she knew all about it from the small radio in her room.

The Philippines had been attacked and Miles was one of the men under Douglas MacArthur.

Temple went on thinking of Jud.

She went on thinking of Jud as letters came from home, one postmarked before Pearl Harbor that was normal and newsy, and one postmarked after Pearl Harbor that was full of the war and Grandmother Hallett's faith in God and Allison's terror lest a bomb fall upon her. And her mother had said that war does not touch girls.

When Temple felt stronger, she walked to the dresser drawer, unlocked it and slipped her wedding ring on her finger. She had been as much Jud's wife as though she had been married to him for ten years and had had children. . . . But somehow the wedding ring had little significance now. It was as hollow as she. She left untouched the linens which had been for a bright future that had existed only in her mind. Her mother could use them or perhaps she would give them to Abby. Uncertainty . . . impermanence.

The one-way street had reached a dead end. Nor could she turn around and go over it the right way . . . The street wasn't there anymore.

She tried to tell herself that she would return to the office and continue to live as she had lived since she came to Washington. But it was no use. Washington was too full of memories of a dream that had passed and she had never really liked her work.

When she dressed and went out for a walk she realized how weak she was and how the illness of her heart and spirit had made her, at least for the present, unfit for work. She saw, too, that Washington was a city geared for war. Perhaps more than any other city it was geared for war. It infused you with a spirit to get out and do something for the fight. It made her little job more meaningless than ever.

She was waiting for Thalia Santos.

With collections for city water service during the first half of 1942 totaling $38,306.18, delinquencies have reached the lowest level noted in years, according to Fred A. Lingafelter, secretary of the waterworks department.

Collections closed last Thursday.

While receipts totaled $42,306.18 this amount included $4,000 from commercial users. Billing to domestic consumers based on July meter readings totaled $42,327.08, leaving $4,020.90 delinquent.

Sewer rental collections for the half-year period were $13,543.43 as compared to billings totaling $14,816.39, leaving delinquencies of $1,262.96.

Sharp Criticism of War Set-Up

RECOMMENDATION by a congressional committee that there be "a complete reshuffling of top war agencies," coupled with assertion that "those officials who have charge of the war production program . . . have not yet grasped the meaning of modern war," tends to bring into the open a matter which has been disturbing many people in this country—apparent inclination in Washington to feel that multiplication of federal jobs for civilians and maintenance of "social gains" will win the war.

Disinclination of President Roosevelt to delegate any of his wartime powers to capable men not in accord with his New Deal policies was detrimental to early phases of the war effort, and, according to the findings of this special congressional committee, the administration is still in a groping stage, with many things to be done before actual readiness for "all out" war is attained.

Whether improvement would result from such a new "super control board," as advised in the congressional report, is problematical, depending on the method of selection and personnel of the proposed board.

The committee report repeats the warning: "This war CAN be lost in Washington . . .," which does not serve to lessen the confusion that has resulted from expression of conflicting views on this subject.

Best thought for the American people to keep in mind is that the war WILL BE WON—but ineptitude in Washington, and delay in doing things that must be done, can be effective in unnecessarily prolonging the struggle.

Extra Safeguards for 'Teen-Age Group

EFFORTS being made to establish special safeguards for the 18- and 19-year-old youths who may soon be drafted for army service are understandable, in view of the immaturity which some people credit to young men under 20, but to many others it will appear that whatever protection against intoxicants and immorality is deemed advisable for soldiers UNDER 20 might well apply with equal force to service men ABOVE 20.

The war department has made a determined effort to free military areas of contaminating influences, but apparently without any considerable success, else no special concern would need be felt about the 18- and 19-year-olds, as these are already safeguarded by laws which prohibit the sale of intoxicants to minors.

Any idea that young people under the age of 21 would be subjected to greater temptation to drink intoxicants after being inducted into the army, or that they would have more opportunity to buy liquor, is refuted by the light regard in which the law against selling to minors has been held in Mansfield, and probably in many other cities.

If boys of 18 and 19 are acceptable for enlistment or draft into military service they deserve being considered as MEN, and whatever protection against evil environment is regarded as best for ANY soldiers should be accorded ALL SOLDIERS.

Forger Picks Himself Tough Job

FORGERY is one of the criminal offenses that had best be left to experts—as it usually proves dangerous business for the occasional numbskull who indulges in that imitative venture.

Consider, for instance, the idea of a 16-year-old youngster attempting to reproduce a facsimile of the signature of Louis Bromfield and expecting it to pass muster!

While anyone familiar with Louie's signature realizes that there is a fair degree of consistency in the illegible scrawl, a stranger would require the typed line below to establish identity of the writer.

Not unlike the incident of the man who went to the hotel desk, signed the register, and was then asked his name by the clerk.

"Why there it is on the register," the guest replied in a surprised tone.

"Yes, I know," responded the clerk, "that's what aroused by curiosity."

So if there's to be even a fair chance of a forger "getting away with it" the intended victim might much better be chosen from among those who were in school when educational faddists perpetrated the so-called "vertical system" of penmanship on an unsuspecting public.

Cleveland Starts Coffee Check-Up

MAYOR LAUSCHE, of Cleveland, at least deserves "credit for effort" in attempting to bring some sort of order out of the coffee chaos in that city.

In Cleveland, as in Mansfield, retail dealers have been unable to meet the consumer demand for coffee—customers complained of being required to wait in line several hours and then possibly getting no coffee, while merchants objected to being abused for something over which they have no control.

Refusal of the federal government to ration coffee, as was done with sugar, has resulted in unbalanced distribution of what is said to be a sufficient supply of coffee to meet all reasonable requirements.

The Cleveland move to get some idea of present and prospective stocks of coffee available for that area, coupled with an effort to devise a fair distribution plan, seems so sensible that it may be wondered why it wasn't started sooner.

Helping His Uncle Sam

GOOD IDEA, that of Thomas Schwartz, Mansfield young man who invested his money in war bonds just before leaving for army service.

He's entrusting his life to Uncle Sam, so what's more natural than that he should also loan his Uncle Sam as much money as possible to help win the war quickly.

Some can enter military service, some can buy bonds—it just happens that this young man can do both.

Those who can buy bonds—and thus help in winning the war—will surely not consider 10 per cent of their earnings too large an investment.

If, as has been intimated from London, Eleanor Roosevelt is planning an inspection trip to England, it is probably too much to expect that she will be back safely in Washington before she says anything about it.

ANOTHER LABOR SHORTAGE

Byrnes May Design Postwar Plan

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — As if Economic Stabilizer James F. Byrnes hadn't enough to keep him busy with his wartime stabilization duties, it's proposed now to give him a division to plan in advance a program for sliding the country right ahead, without a hitch, into peacetime stability the minute the cease-firing order's passed.

There are critics who say we are doing too much worrying concerning the post-war period; that our today's imperative duty is to concentrate exclusively on beating the Axis, letting the future bring whatever grief it may.

The opposition argument, however, is that the motto, "In time of war prepare for peace," is just as good as the motto, "In time of peace prepare for war."

It's denied, too, that peace preparation at present need qualify our war effort in the least. Indeed, there are those who contend that Byrnes' concept of permanent stability will be calculated to strengthen us immediately.

Illustratively, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, reasoning, the other day, before the upper congressional chamber's small business committee, gave it as his judgment that economic collapse isn't far ahead but imminent, lacking preventive measure, and warned that it'll be anything but helpful to us as belligerents, to say nothing of the suffering it'll cause subsequently.

Popular Choice.

Byrnes hasn't been in his new office long enough to have demonstrated his policy very fully, but if it turns out as well as it promises, his appointment seems likely to be among the most popular that President Roosevelt ever made.

Not alone conservatives, but many merely reasonably cautious folk, have been apprehensive all along that the New Dealers would try to put into effect a lot of so-called "social reforms," which they were afraid of, under cover of the war.

Byrnes is a reasonable liberal, but no radical, to alarm anyone.

Conscripting a supreme court justice for such a job would be a doubtful experiment ordinarily, because a supreme court justice traditionally mustn't express himself, even in a whisper, off the bench. Now and then, one of 'em may have had quite advanced ideas in his youth, but the public's forgotten 'em after a few years and assesses 'em as an ancient dodo, like the judiciary generally.

Byrnes, though, is only quite recently out of the senate. Boosted into the group of "nine old men," he closed up, like the rest of 'em.

Nevertheless, he hadn't been entombed long enough for his congressional utterances to have passed from the public memory. He was recognized, by the newspaper boys, in particular (and they count in popularity's creation) as a friendly, human kind of a chap.

Besides, he got directly back into the limelight.

He hadn't moved out of his supreme court justice's office into his stabilization headquarters before he was giving out interviews to the press.

He's no back number, in short.

The beauty of this long-run economic job is that it's bound to slop over into international days.

Obviously the Axis countries, individually licked, will have to be included in the post-war lineup. They can't be disregarded, as a separate world.

Destination Unknown

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DON'T KNOW the author, can't give credit. It's a new song. Caught only a line of it from the air the other night but that line stuck:

"When I'm destination unknown."

Perhaps that line stuck because I'd been reading through a mountain of fan mail. A mountain of fear and resentment, misery and bewilderment. "Destination unknown"—every letter in that pile might have been stamped with that slogan. My own heart might have been stamped with it too. For neither those who wrote nor I who read nor the agonized world we inhabit have the slightest idea of where we are going. For all of us, tomorrow's marching orders run:

"DESTINATION UNKNOWN."

There's the question that is pounding every heart in America today, the rich as well as the poor, the wise as well as the foolish. We've been safe so long. Independent so long, comfortable, happy, arrogant. Now all that is imperiled. Slowly but surely we are realizing our danger, beginning to wonder what lies ahead.

When or how will this war end? What will it leave in its terrible wake? How many of us are prepared to face what it leaves? How many of us are fit to tackle the uncharted problems which lie ahead? How many of us have the courage, imagination or determination—much less the willingness—to change our old, weak, selfish ways to meet these utterly new conditions and demands? How about our homes? Our children? Our jobs? Our fun? Our wages? Our right to determine our own destinies?

Over and over, like bloodhounds baying on our trail, these questions hunt us down . . . rouse us to fury or fear. What's the answer? The answer lies in those two words:

"DESTINATION UNKNOWN."

No one of us knows where we are going or what we will do when we get there. We are facing as deep a wilderness as our Pilgrim fathers faced upon their "rock-bound shore." We have no maps to guide us . . . no precedents to lean upon. We only know that, whatever happens, it will be up to us to make a new world and shape our reluctant spirits to the demands of that world.

So what? Just this: START SHAPING!

Stop clinging to Yesterday. Stop expecting that Yesterday will return. It never will. Stop basing your hope and happiness on certain circumstances and conditions.

REALIZE RIGHT NOW THAT YOU'LL HAVE TO TAKE WHAT YOU GET AND LIKE IT. OR IF YOU DON'T WANT SUCH A DEAL, GET BUSY AND RAISE HOB BEFORE THE OTHER FELLOW HANDS IT TO YOU.

And you can get busy. It may not be possible for you, personally, to stop this present nightmare. But if the strength you acquired in older days has any value, it is possible for you to prepare yourself for a new and nobler order. Hitler isn't standing in your way, nor Hirohito, nor Mussolini. Only your own stubbornness and stupidity are standing in your way.

"Destination unknown?" Yes. But why should that hold you back? It didn't hold back Adam or Moses, Washington, Lincoln, Chiang Kai-Shek or General MacArthur. They went forward regardless of precedent or personal prejudice.

THEN WHAT'S HOLDING YOU?

(Copyright, 1942.)

Timely Editorial

Meddlesome Criticism?

We are engaged in a war in association with certain allies or friends. The skins of all of us depend on continued friendship of these friends. Shall we go to counting the warts on the nose of the neighbor who is fighting our battle by our side? Not if we have the sense we were born with.

Saying this, we are thinking of the editor of Life, in an open letter telling our ally England of its sins in India. (What would he think of a corresponding letter from Great Britain reminding us meddlesomely of our own several imperfections?). We think also of such as make remarks to Russia anent its social order, so little to our mind.

As between allies, in short, can't there be the same simple good manners and restraint of tongue by which we keep our dinner party from breaking up, ere the fish course is done, in a bloody row?—Springfield News.

Interpreting the War News

Land Attack Necessary To Victory, Air Assaults Alone Will Not Win

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—What would you give if you could be assured that this time next year Herr Hitler would be swinging sweetly from the end of a hangman's rope?

Plenty, of course. And I believe we can have this assurance if the Anglo-American allies aren't compelled by circumstances to deviate far from their fundamental strategy—crush him.

We have now reached the crucial moment when American and British moves of the immediate future may determine whether the world conflict will be greatly protracted or whether it will end say, in 12 months.

The trend of the Hitlerian war depends heavily on the striking power of the United States and British air forces over western Europe and Germany.

My belief in the air possibilities increased and crystallized as a result of access to invaluable information here in this west Allied airbase, for that's exactly what Britain is.

Now, I'm not one of those who claim the war can be won in the air alone. I don't believe it can.

However, it seems clear Hitler now is in a position where he can be rendered fairly impotent by bombing in a comparatively short time and thus be made vulnerable to land attack.

Here you probably will point to the Royal Air Force's 1,000-bomber raid on Cologne and other great assaults, both by the British and by our own very destructive air force, and ask why they cannot be continued. Well the answer to that is the thing in a nutshell.

You cannot keep up 1,000-bomber assaults without stiff reinforcements and replacements. And unless the heavy raids are continued it will take a long time to iron out the Boche.

Unfortunately, so far as concerns the air, Uncle Sam and John Bull haven't been able to adhere strictly to their policy of concentrating power against Hitler. A great number of bombers has been sent to other places.

The necessity of diverting this air strength must provide, it seems to me, one of the reasons why the Anglo American allies have not felt able to open a second land front in western Europe thus far.

The Russians are calling for quick help. The sooner we get busy blowing up the fuehrer's front yard and sowing our dragon's teeth there, the sooner will our armed warriors spring from the soil to attack him.

We are up against the fact the only way we can get at Hitler is by way of the air.

So why give him odds in the battle? The process of weakening him by air need not take long. As many military experts here figure it, the job can be done in a comparatively short time—if we can bring strongly reinforced air power against him in the immediate future. It can be done quickly enough to give the Russians the help they need.

* * *

THE POSITION is this: The Nazi chief has taken a terrible beating this summer. Not only has he failed to break through to badly needed fresh resources and to new strategic bases in the Middle East but his losses in manpower and equipment have been colossal. The German air force is in bad shape. It is in urgent need of overhaul and the crews must have rest.

In short, as winter approaches, we see the harried fuehrer at by far the lowest mark he has touched since he set out to master the world.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

(Last in a series on enlisting in the fighting forces.)

WASHINGTON—If you want to get into the thick of things, there is one service that shouldn't be overlooked — the Merchant Marine.

If you want to make the sea your life, with the postwar job of captain of your own ship at a top salary of $7,500 a year or more as your life's goal, then the Merchant Marine is your dish.

Never in the history of any nation have ships rolled down the ways with such speed as they are in the United States today. Stories of the shipbuilding feats of Henry J. Kaiser and others read like fiction but the stories would end on a sorry note if we couldn't supply the men to sail them. And that's the job of the Merchant Marine.

Nor will any sailor of the line have to hang his head about not doing his part in the war. Some of the greatest tales of heroism yet to come out of this war have come from the Merchant Marine. With some 500 ships torpedoed off our shores, it's not hard to see where our front line has been to date.

TO ENLIST in the Merchant Marine isn't hard. If you are "seaworthy" physically—between 18 and 35 years old—you can get in and if you have a head on your shoulders and are willing to work at it, advancement probably will be more rapid than in any of the armed forces.

The ordinary peacetime training period is seven months, but a portion of the period is at sea, which in wartime means being under the guns while you are learning. Base pay is the same as in the Army or Navy—while you're learning: $50 a month, with board and room. But after that, Merchant Marine pay takes a hop: $82.50 to $100 a month and up as soon as you have your papers.

THE Merchant Marine also has a stipulation that if you serve eight months in any year, you get a month's pay bonus and in addition a month's pay for serving a month in special training.

With expansion of the Merchant Marine planned for the end for 1943, there will be 30,000 deck and engineer officers required to man the ships. That gives some idea of the possibilities in the U. S. Maritime Commission Cadet Corps, with schools at New Orleans, New York and San Francisco.

Applications for appointment to the Cadet Corps must be made to the Supervisor of Cadet Training, U. S. Maritime Commission, Washington, D. C.

Man About Manhattan

How to Star Gaze

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This town seems to contain an unusually large number of persons who go around talking to themselves—until you realize that a good many of them are actors rehearsing their lines. It's not surprising, either, that there is so much of this funny talk and gesturing on the streets, because after you have been in New York a while and wander around for days without seeing a familiar face, you get the feeling that you are alone.

Your chances of seeing a famous actor or actress on the street, however, are not great unless you deliberately go looking for them. I saw Claude Rains coming out of the RKO building the other day, nearly collided with Bert Wheeler on Broadway, and one night while sitting on the office steps was somewhat startled to see Boris Karloff go stalking past, but that's about the limit for such encounters over a period of a couple of months.

If you come to New York and want to stalk stage celebrities, stay close to the Forties west of Broadway, particularly around 1:45 p. m. on matinee afternoons.

OF COURSE, a celebrity is liable to turn up anyplace. Bearded Vincent Price, homicidal husband of the stage hit, "Angel Street," nearing its 375 performance, rides the subways frequently. His appearance startles people into some strange reactions which the mild-mannered Price has the good sense to enjoy.

Despite his fiendish look, he is a pleasant, democratic guy who likes the society of working men, eats in their restaurants where the steaks come thick, and is bored by the stage's glamour boys who are given to gathering in the famous spots and talking shop in loud voices. Very often he buys drinks, without flourish or show-off, for the huskies who haul the garbage from 45th street. He's a middlewesterner who came to Broadway from St. Louis, but most of his many successes have been in plays dealing with another era, notably "Victoria Regina."

* * *

WALK-ONS: Broadway soon will have both stage and screen versions of "My Sister Eileen," first time that's happened since "You Can't Take It With You." Word from Baltimore, where a road company met up with the screen "Eileen" (before the latter's bow on Broadway), was that there was room for both. . . . Gordon Jones, in both stage and screen versions, now is in the army, taking the cue from his distinguished brother, Capt. Paul Jones . . . Casting has begun for "Old Soldiers Never Die," from the recently discussed book by James Ronald. Stage Producer Max Siegel and Author Ronald both want C. Aubrey Smith to be the old general . . . Natalie Shafer, who played the fashion editor in the Broadway musical play, "Lady In the Dark," probably will have the same role in Paramount's screen adaptation . . . A full-length film musical, "Follies Girl," will be produced in New York, with local talent, scenery and effects, in response to frequent pleas by Hizzoner, the Mayor, Buich.

A Farmer's Diary

Scrapping the Bell

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TWO HUSKY rural high school boys stood by a mammoth locust pole, looking up intently at a bell that was bolted securely on the top. The farmer and his wife, both elderly people, stood on the porch. The youths were eager and every little while swayed the prize above them, but the aged couple seemed hesitant.

"And you want that bell for scrap?" the old man said. "Why that bell's been in our family nigh sixty years. Grandpap bought it from a young man named Herrick who came around these parts in a two-horse wagon full of dinner-bells for farms. He stayed at grandpap's more'n one night—and et his meals there. That young man—Myron Herrick was his name—was some salesman! When he was an old man he got to be ambassador to France—about the time Lindbergh made his flight to Paris!

"Boys, you don't know what you're askin' of us. That bell's a precious part of our home. It rang when we were married—right in there, fifty years ago, come March. You could hear it miles away. Friends of ours up in the hills heard it and knew we'd tied the knot. They say it sounded faint, but prettier than ever. It has a good tone.

"Every animal around here knows its sound. The mules we used to own—poor things, they died, and we buried 'em down by the worm fence—would stop when it rang, and not go another step. Somehow boys, you're askin' an awful lot mighty sudden.

"But it's not for ourselves," said one boy, with real sincerity. "You've got two grandsons in the war, haven't you? Every bit of scrap we gather up may save some soldier's life! Your grandsons might be needing weapons and shells. . . ."

The old man turned to his wife. "If the Russians can set fire to their homes and all their possessions, and then give their lives besides, for their country, Martha, mebbe you and me oughta give something that'd hurt as much as that old bell. . . ." With moist eyes, Martha nodded.

"Take her down tomorrow morning boys, and leave me that post. Martha and me'll likely be away—but you go ahead!"
